MAD CAREER OF A RABID BRUTE ON THE EAST SIDE.

FIVE BOYS BITTEN BEFORE THE ANIMAL IS SHOT BY A POLICEMAN—THE DOG COVERS SEVERAL MILES OF STREETS BEFORE BEING KILLED.

Five boys with fresh dog bites on their hands or arms went to the Gouverneur Hospital before noon yesterday and begged for treatment to ward off hydrophobia. They all told the same story. They had been attacked in the street by a big, black, shaggy dog which sprang at them without a warning growl and went swiftly on his way after setting his teeth in their flesh. As the boys staggered in, one at a time, and told their tales of distress, the hospital authorities became excited. One boy had been bitten in Cherry-st., another in Broome-st., another in Monroe-st., another in Columbus-st., and so on, leaving no doubt that a dangerous and rabid dog was running through the East Side of town and taking a nip at every person he encountered.

AN ALARM FROM HEADQUARTERS.

Chief Clerk Wilson rang up Police Headquarters on the telephone and sent information to Chief Conlin about the dog. The result was that an alarm went over the police wires, directing the police in several East Side precincts, to engage in a dog hunt with all possible speed. The police were turned out at the Delancey-st. and Madison-st. stations, and the men who left the stations scattered through the precincts and gave warning to the policemen on posts. In that way the dangerous dog was hunted down. Policeman Murphy met the dog in Madison-st. and shot him to death.

Nobody followed the dog, and because of the rain comparatively few people were in the streets through which the dog ran. Small boys were the most numerous of the persons on the sidewalks, and therefore they were victims of the dog's animosity. If the weather had been fair, many women and little girls probably would have been bitten by the dog. Everybody who saw the dog in the streets and talked with the police about him believed that the dog was rabid, although it does not often happen that a dog is attacked with rabies in the winter time.

At the Gouverneur Hospital the wounds inflicted by the dog were cauterized and bandaged. The parents of some of the bitten boys said they might have the boys treated at the Pasteur Institute in the city.

STORIES TOLD BY THE BOYS.

After the wounds of the boys taken to the hospital had been dressed by Dr. O'Mara, the boys showed a decided willingness to talk, and their stories all agreed as to the ferociousness of the dog. Like all mad dogs, the animal which bit the boys did not apparently go out of his way to attack anybody. He travelled over a direct course, and sprang on every living being in his path.

Elwood Seabury, a little boy, who lives at No. 35 Broome-st., said that he was bitten at Broome and Goerck sts. He was walking along the street and did not see the dog until the animal flew at him. He threw up his arm to protect himself, and the dog grabbed it and hung on until kicked off. The dog then ran away.

Louis Schug was bitten on both hands. He said that he was walking in front of his home at No. 132 Monroe-st., when the dog ran up and attacked him. The animal went so fast that nobody noticed his approach. Bernard McNulty, a little boy, said that he was bitten on the hand and arm. He said that he was walking toward his home when he saw the dog running toward him. The animal came so fast that he was unable to get out of the way. He sprang up at him and caught one hand in the dog's mouth, and the dog bit it. Then he grabbed the other hand and bit that, too. The boy said he finally got away, and the dog continued on his course.

William Newman, thirteen years old, was the oldest boy taken to the hospital. He was bitten in the right hand. He said that the dog attacked him in Columbus-st. He was walking toward his home when he saw the dog running toward him. The animal came so fast that he was unable to get out of the way. He sprang up at him and caught one hand in the dog's mouth, and the dog bit it. Then he grabbed the other hand and bit that, too. The boy said he finally got away, and the dog continued on his course.

Among the other boys reported to have been bitten by the dog were Martin Ennsdaff, fifteen years old, of No. 236 Second-st.; Joseph Paley, of No. 129 Suffolk-st.; and Joseph Paley, of No. 129 Suffolk-st. The dog was owned by the property of a factory in Broome-st.

Dr. C. E. Nammack, a police surgeon, while paying his usual visit to Gouverneur Hospital, said that the dog sprang at his horse as he was driving through Cherry-st. He did not know at the time that the dog was mad and drove on. The police of the Delancey-st. precinct acted promptly on receiving notice from Headquarters that the dog was at large. Sergeant Hutton was on duty when the alarm came in at 11:20 a. m. He immediately sent out all the reserves, who in turn warned the patrolmen on their posts to look out for the dog.

SHOT BY A POLICEMAN.

Policeman Francis J. Murphy at 12:10 p. m. saw the dog running toward him in Madison-st. near Jackson-st. He drew his revolver and waited until the brute was within a few feet of him and then fired. The bullet struck the dog in the head just as he sprang at Murphy. The shot would have killed any ordinary dog, but it failed in this case and the brute seized the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth. In his report at the station Murphy said that he fired three bullets down the dog's throat before the infuriated animal relinquished his hold upon the revolver. The dog then reeled around a few feet and fell dead on the sidewalk in front of No. 361 Madison-st. The revolver shortly after the marks of the dog's teeth upon the barrel, and a piece of the nickel with which it was laced was torn off. Murphy said he had no doubt that the dog was rabid, if it had not been for the fact that it was a handsome woman, of excellent character. The family are German Catholics and are much respected.

A HITCH OVER PROMOTIONS.

COMMISSIONER PARKER'S OPPOSITION TO CORTRIGHT'S ADVANCEMENT.

IT IS BELIEVED THAT HE WILL NOT VOTE FOR ANY APPOINTMENTS OF HIGH OFFICIALS AT THIS TIME—CHIEF CONLIN'S POSITION.

There is likely to be a hitch in the Police Board over the promotion of Inspector Cortright to the place of Deputy-Chief. The Inspector has been placed on examination on next Wednesday, and Commissioner Parker's vote was recorded against it. Inasmuch as Mr. Parker has opposed his colleagues in ordering the Inspector to be examined, it is inferred that he will also oppose his appointment. In that case the other three Commissioners could only promote Cortright on the Chief's recommendation. What position Chief Conlin will take in the premises cannot be ascertained. He refused yesterday morning to discuss the matter.

In case of a high order of promotion, it is believed that the Board will also be at odds over other promotions which are now hanging fire. Five Inspectors will be needed by March 5, when the new inspection districts will be established. Captains Brooks and McCallahan, who are now Acting Inspectors, have not yet been confirmed as Inspectors, and it is understood that Commissioner Parker is holding out against their appointment. At present, besides the Deputy-Chief and Inspector, there are several captains and sergeants yet to be appointed. Mr. Parker's opposition may also block the appointments to these grades.

Should Mr. Parker not decide from the position he has taken to oppose the promotion of Cortright, he may be requested to resign. The Board has recommended promotions which three Commissioners have not yet agreed to. A few can confirm. It will be remembered that a few can confirm. It will be remembered that a few can confirm. It will be remembered that a few can confirm.

At the invitation of the Police Board, Carl Schurz, president of the Civil Service Reform Association, Secretary M. A. Ryan, Alfred Mason, Bishop and Colonel S. N. Burd, of the State Civil Service Board, met at Police Headquarters yesterday for the purpose of investigating the workings of the department, so far as promotions, dismissals and reductions in rank were concerned. Chief Conlin, four captains, four sergeants and four roundsmen, who were promoted by the present Board, were summoned before the investigators. Chief Conlin was the first to have his promotion investigated. Four roundsmen who passed the highest examination were then ushered before the Civil Service officers. The captains who were promoted were Harley, of 27th St., O'Brien, of the Detective Bureau, Thompson, of Oak-st., and O'Keefe, of MacDougal-st. Sergeants Flood, Steinbrink, Petty and Gorman were also examined. In each case the Civil Service men asked the officers certain questions about their police careers and their records in the department. They also went all through the examination papers of the men, and carefully investigated the system of making promotions in the department.

At about 6:30 o'clock this morning she was combing her hair in the kitchen when Hartlein came behind her, locked over her shoulder and said: "Louise, will you marry me?" She replied, impatiently: "Get away from me, you scoundrel!" Hartlein went into the pantry, came back with a dirk-knife about eight inches long, and plunged it into her breast just above the heart. Miss Trebbe sank to the floor and died in fifteen minutes. There were no witnesses to the fatal deed. Miss Trebbe's body was discovered a few minutes later by her sister, Mrs. Thomas Ward, with whom she lived. The murderer ran from the house, and no trace of him could be seen when Mrs. Ward discovered the body.

Deputy-Sheriff George H. Hall was summoned. He arrived about 8 o'clock. A crowd of people had gathered, and several passes were turned in to search for the murderer. Hall headed one posse, and soon found his man concealed in a haystack on the James O'Connell place about half a mile from the scene of the murder. Drawing his revolver, Hall commanded Hartlein to surrender. He soon had the murderer handcuffed.

Hartlein had a rope with him, and he said that he intended to hang himself with it. He admitted having killed Miss Trebbe, and said that he did it because she refused to marry him. The bloody dirk which he had used in the murder was found in a swamp where Hartlein had thrown it. The murderer was taken before Judge Powers, and he pleaded guilty and was bound over for trial at the next term of the Superior Court.

Hartlein is a German, about fifty years old, and has been in the country about seventeen years. He is a quarrelsome fellow and has a criminal record. Miss Trebbe was a handsome woman, of excellent character. The family are German Catholics and are much respected.

WHY DIDN'T YOUR FRIEND COME TO SEE US TO-DAY, DOCTOR?

"HE IS IN MOURNING, AND DOESN'T GO ANYWHERE."

"BUT HE'S NOT EVEN TO AN 'AT HOME' DOES HE TAKE THAT FOR A FORM OF AMUSEMENT?"

GRACE CHURCH JUBILEE.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF ITS CONSECRATION.

CELEBRATION TO TAKE PLACE NEXT SATURDAY—DESCRIPTION OF THE FORMER BUILDING.

AT BROADWAY AND RECTOR-ST.

Grace Episcopal church will celebrate this week a golden jubilee, for Saturday, March 7, will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the consecration of the present beautiful house of worship, at Broadway, near Tenmth-st., which is known from one end of the land to the other as one of the most notable models of sacred architecture in this city. In the history of the present church, with its line of well-known preachers and its congregation of wealth and fashion, the story of the first Grace Church, a modest, unassuming structure at Broadway and Rector-st., has been almost forgotten. This edifice formed a parallelogram of 60 feet within the walls in length, and fifty feet in width. The exterior was mainly of brick, without any pretensions to the regular order of architecture. The projections were marble and wood, and the corners Doric, surmounted by an appropriate balustrade subdivided by panels. The cupola was also of wood, cylindrical in form, resting on a rectangular pedestal, assisted with three-quarter columns of the Ionic order, supporting the dome roof, which had springing from a small fanlight above the entrance, from which was the vane representing a star. The interior presented a lofty concave ceiling paneled and supported by four massive columns in the Grecian-Ionic order, with corresponding pilasters.

On the front end was the organ loft, on the other end a chancel in the form of a semi-circular. The reading desk was square and composed of two three-quarter columns of the Ionic order, supporting the dome roof, which had springing from a small fanlight above the entrance, from which was the vane representing a star. The interior presented a lofty concave ceiling paneled and supported by four massive columns in the Grecian-Ionic order, with corresponding pilasters.

When the first company of firemen reached the scene the two top floors were blazing like a furnace. The flames were leaping out of the windows and spreading through the roof. The street in front of the building was a scene of wild excitement. The many clerks in the place ran pell-mell down the stairs. The fact that there was a fire in the upper floors was known to the people in the street before the employees in the establishment of Emory Brown & Co. realized it. Some one ran into the Police Bureau, and the Leonard-st. station, was on duty in the neighborhood, and sent in an alarm. When the firemen arrived they saw that the fire was a dangerous one. The captain of the first company at the building sent out a second call and then in turn a third and a fourth alarm was turned in.

Then the firemen began to attack the fire from all sides. The crew of Water Tower No. 1 did the most valuable service. They stationed their apparatus directly in front of the burning building, not heeding the danger which threatened them occasionally from pieces of heavy cornice which were chipped off from the front of the building as a result of the intense heat, and fell to the street. The smoke from the flames shot higher into the air, and the firemen fought the danger from every side, their efforts being mainly directed toward saving the adjoining buildings. By noon they had the fire under control. They succeeded in confining it to the three upper floors.

The police estimate the damage of the fire at $25,000. This, however, is believed to be excessive. The fire adjusters do not think that the actual loss will amount to more than $5,000.
